ARGENPLAS IS BACK, THE LARGEST MEETING OF THE PLASTIC INDUSTRY THAT THE MARKET WAS WAITING FOR

From June 6 to 9, La Rural will be the new meeting place where all the protagonists of the plastic industry will converge for four days. On a surface that exceeds 11,000m², the technological deployment, trends and innovations of this thriving industry will be present to show live everything that the market longed to see.

"These were years in which, as a result of the pandemic, the fair market was forced to have no activity and therefore exhibitors and visitors could not meet to do business. Today all sanitary conditions are given and guaranteed so that executives can experience seeing each other again at a fair", said Gabriel Pascual, Director of MBG & EVENTS.

"From CAIP, we are very happy to be face to face with our partners, exhibitors and colleagues after these years of recess where the pandemic did not allow us this. Argenplás is synonymous with innovation, circular economy and business and this year this combination will return stronger than ever" said Antonio Paolini, President of CAIP.

He also highlighted "We are convinced that our industry brings well-being to the community, whether at work, in our homes, in sports, in medicine, in our free time, simply everywhere, and in this, Argenplás has demonstrated always set the trend and direction in terms of production, transformation systems, development and sustainability of the Plastic Sector and its applications"

For 18 editions, Argenplás has been the meeting point where the production chain as a whole is represented with machines and tools, raw materials and chemical products, rubber, transformers, finished and semi-finished plastic products, among others. They will be represented by more than 150 exhibitors from Argentina and 10 countries around the world.
